

In the Race for U.S. Senate Where the Candidates Stand on Life

Darline Graham

Annie Andrews

On Abortion

- “One of my core convictions is my belief in protecting the sanctity of human life at every stage. For years, I’ve committed my life to fighting for vulnerable populations, and no one is more vulnerable than an unborn child who cannot speak for themselves,” said Senator Darline Graham. “As a mother, I know that welcoming children into this world is God’s greatest gift. I’m proud to be pro-life and to stand up for the unborn and expecting moms. I will not waver in my support for life, pregnant women, and families.”

- In a visit to a pregnancy center in South Carolina, Graham said, “I know what a blessing it is to bring a child into this world. Every life has value. Every unborn baby has a right to live.”

- Darline Graham immediately co-sponsored seven pro-life bills as soon as she was appointed Senator. These include the Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act, No Taxpayer Funding for Abortion and Abortion Insurance Full Disclosure Act of 2025, and the Forced Abortion Prevention and Accountability Act among others.

- In May 2022, Andrews spoke about the Dobbs decision when she ran unsuccessfully for Congress: “It is critical that Congress codifies Roe v. Wade as soon as possible... If there are not 60 votes in the United States Senate, I support ending the filibuster on an issue as important as this.”

- She reiterated her support for Roe in the current race for Senate.

Roe v. Wade resulted in the deaths of more than 65 million unborn children in the United States.

Making Roe v. Wade the law of the land would make abortion until birth legal in all 50 states.

In South Carolina, making Roe federal law would:

- Allow abortion a method of birth control.
- Allow the savage method of partial-birth abortion we outlawed in 1997.
- Allow abortion facilities to grind up babies’ bodies in sink disposals.
- Repeal the Abortion Clinic Regulation Act.
- Repeal all South Carolina laws protecting unborn babies and their mothers.
